

The Power Of Creative Thinking

July 21, 2020

Dear customer, vendor, partner:

A sound Corporate Citizenship is the essence of a Corporation's sustainability and it permeates throughout the organization and extends to its social and environmental spheres.

Corporate engines can be powerful agents of transformation. Businesses have the opportunity and the responsibility to promote positive changes in the world.

Awareness has increased and Environmental and Social responsibility have been recognized as important focus areas of Corporate Governance (ESG).

For over two decades, EMED's commitment to ESG has included multiple factors from investment to development of transformative technologies in sustainable ways.

Research on environmental materials, enhanced recyclability and increased global access to our technologies are at the forefront of our corporate priorities. We have invested in recyclable polymers and other renewable materials to ensure present and future generations of devices are increasingly sustainable and environmentally responsible.

EMED focuses on optimizing its supply chain and production. Our principal objective is to offer outstanding employment opportunities in different regions of the world while reducing the carbon footprint of our operations and products through manufacturing centers of excellence throughout a global operation.

EMED believes that creating a work environment that promotes human values and respects personal beliefs, defines a powerful way to high productivity and collaborative efforts. Our human resource policy is designed to celebrate diversity and our work environment enables interaction and productivity. EMED provides expanded opportunities for inventors, executives, and workers to excel in their respective contributions.

EMED integrates human values, financial resources, science, and technology and puts them at the service of society. A sound ESG philosophy can transform global issues into opportunities and substantive solutions.
